

RENISHAW GROUP

TAX STRATEGY

Overview of Renishaw business

Renishaw is a global, high-precision metrology and healthcare technology group, headquartered in the United Kingdom. Renishaw's purpose is to design, develop and deliver solutions and systems that provide precision, control and reliability, working closely with its customers to solve complex challenges and improve products and processes. Renishaw's disruptive thinking and manufacturing excellence helps customers increase innovation, improve quality, expand output and enhance efficiency. Renishaw's strategy is underpinned with long-term investments in people, innovation and infrastructure. Research and development (R&D), the majority of which is carried out in the UK, is at the heart of Renishaw's business, with investment in R&D and engineering typically between 13% and 18% of revenue annually¹. 'apply innovation' is deeply embedded in Renishaw's culture, with patent and intellectual property generation core to new product developments. Renishaw has high-quality manufacturing plants located in the UK, Ireland, India, Germany, the USA and France and is passionate in its belief that excellent local global customer support delivers success. Renishaw markets its products through subsidiaries in 37 countries and 79 locations and has approximately 4,500 employees world-wide.

Objectives and scope

Renishaw plc's tax strategy supports the strategic commercial objectives of Renishaw and is applicable to Renishaw plc and its subsidiaries world-wide. In accordance with the Renishaw Group Business Code, it is the Renishaw plc Board's objective that Renishaw will comply with all applicable tax laws and regulations in the territories in which it operates. This objective sets a clear culture in which Renishaw operates in relation to taxation. For the avoidance of doubt, tax evasion and the facilitation of tax evasion is not tolerated and Renishaw is committed to ensuring that it meets the compliance obligations of the UK Corporate Criminal Offence of failure to prevent facilitation of tax evasion.

Tax risk management and governance

Renishaw's key tax risks fall into a number of categories:

- Transactional – risks and exposures relating to specific transactions
- Operational – underlying risks associated with application of the tax laws to routine business operations
- Compliance – risks implicit in the tax accounting arrangements adopted in the preparation and submission of tax returns, making tax payments, and responding to enquiries raised in the process of reaching an agreed position with the tax authorities
- Financial accounting – risks associated with the processes and internal controls for arriving at the tax entries in the financial statements

Renishaw adopts the following approach to tax governance and risk management in order to fulfil its tax compliance obligations globally:

- The Renishaw plc Board is responsible for approving and overseeing Renishaw's tax strategy. Responsibility for adherence with the strategy is devolved to the Group Finance Director, who is also the UK Senior Accounting Officer, supported by the Head of Group Finance and Group Tax function.

RENISHAW GROUP TAX STRATEGY

- Day to day implementation of the strategy rests with the Finance functions of the respective Renishaw group companies, supported by the Group Tax function and external tax advisors where appropriate (for example, where there is not sufficient in-house expertise or in areas of complexity or uncertainty). It is the responsibility of the local Finance Director, Finance Manager or other individual, where delegated, of each company to ensure that there are robust tax compliance processes in place, with appropriate financial controls and, as a result, all tax returns are correct, properly completed and submitted to the relevant tax authority, and taxes paid, by the required deadlines.
- The Renishaw plc Board generally receives updates on tax risks on a quarterly basis, and also biannually via the Audit Committee as part of the interim and year-end financial reporting processes. In addition, the Group Finance Director, the Head of Group Finance and the Group Tax Manager hold interim meetings to discuss the Group's tax affairs and to assess the tax impact of business developments.

Approach to tax planning

Renishaw aims to structure its commercial operations, which are based where value is created, in a tax efficient manner in compliance with the tax laws of the jurisdictions in which the Group operates. Renishaw seeks to claim all available local allowances, credits, incentives and reliefs in support of the Group's commercial objectives. Examples include incentives in relation to research and development and the UK patent box regime. Renishaw interprets tax laws in the way it believes they are intended to apply and does not enter into tax planning arrangements that are contrived or artificial.

Renishaw's transfer pricing policy requires intercompany transactions to be carried out on an arm's length basis.

Acceptable levels of tax risk

Whilst the Board has not set rigid levels of acceptable tax risk, its intention is for Renishaw to operate on a low tax risk basis and Renishaw does not engage in transactions considered to be high tax risk. It is however recognised that tax laws can often be complex and open to different interpretations. Renishaw may seek to reduce uncertainty or ambiguity through various actions, including engaging in early dialogue with the tax authorities where this option is available, and taking external professional advice.

Dealings with tax authorities

Renishaw aims to have co-operative, open, honest, and transparent relationships with tax authorities globally, acting in a professional and courteous manner. Renishaw endeavours to engage with tax authorities on a real-time basis where possible and seeks to respond to enquiries in a timely manner.

The Renishaw Group regards that by publishing this strategy, which applies until it is superseded, it has fulfilled its duty to comply with Paragraph 16(2) Schedule 19 of the Finance Act 2016 in respect of the year ended 30 June 2021. For the avoidance of doubt, this strategy covers the taxes listed in paragraph 15(1) of Schedule 19 Finance Act 2016.
